Hundreds Fly From Crete and Find Protection Under the British and French Flags—Serious Riots at Hamburg, Germany—Presence of the Plague—Foreign News.

Canea, Island of Crete, Feb. 8.—Throughout Sunday the town of Canea itself was comparatively quiet, but the fire, started as a result of last week's conflict between the Mussulmans and Christians, has broken out afresh, and several villages in the suburbs are in flames. Outside the walls of Canea there has been a continuous fusillade since Saturday, the soldiers siding with the Mussulmans.

All of the Christians have left the town. Fifteen hundred Christians have gone aboard the British vessels, while 200 subjects of France have found refuge on the French cruiser. The palace of the Christian governor of the island, Georgi Berovitch, prince of Somoa, being blockaded by Mussulmans, Berovitch Pasha accordingly distributed arms with the view of dispersing the besiegers.

At Halepa 700 armed Christians are facing an armed body of Mussulmans. The situation at Retimo is serious. The insurgents hold the vice consuls, the bishop and other notable prisoners as hostages. The Turks have already pillaged several villages, and it is feared that the insurrection will involve the whole of Crete. The Greek squadron has arrived here.

WORK OF CONGRESS FOR PRESENT WEEK

THE LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM IS MADE OUT.

Electoral Vote to Be Counted—Senator Morgan Determined to Force the Nicaragua Canal Bill to a Vote—The Arbitration Treaty—Washington News.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The feature of the week in the house will be the ceremonies on Wednesday of the counting of the electoral vote and the formal promulgation of the election of McKinley and Hobart by the vice-president of the United States. It is a state occasion but of a very formal character. Representative Murray of South Carolina has been appealed to by his associates in the house not to execute his program of protesting South Carolina's electoral vote, and it is likely that he will abide by their advice.

Unless the fortification or sundry civil bill is reported the house will have no appropriation bill to consider this week, and most of the time will be devoted to such bills as the various committees may present and the conference reports.

If Senator Morgan pursues his present plan he will move to take up the Nicaragua canal bill at once. He expects the motion to be antagonized, and in that event will secure a vote which will, he thinks, demonstrate the voting strength of the canal bill. He expects the vote to be largely in the majority, but, whatever the result, he probably will announce his abandonment of the bill for the present session, on account of the determined obstruction to its passage, while at the same time he will declare his purpose to press the measure with more determination than ever at the next session.

The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill has been already reported. The appropriation committee expects to have the Indian and agricultural bills reported by Wednesday, and will ask for early consideration. Senator Thurston will seek the first opportunity to conclude his speech on the Pacific railroad resolution; Senator Morrill has given notice of his intention to advance the bill to prohibit the sale of liquor in the capitol, and Senator Sherman will ask the senate to go into executive session early for the purpose of considering the general arbitration with Great Britain.

As soon as these matters will permit there will be an effort to proceed with the bankruptcy bill, and it is not expected that there will be any avowed opposition to consideration.

PENSION AGENCIES DROPPED.

Nine Important Offices Will Be Consolidated.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The President has signed, on the recommendation of Secretary of the Interior Francis, an important order reducing the number of pension agencies in the United States from eighteen to nine. The object of the order is to effect a very large saving to the government without inconveniencing the pensioners. The Secretary demonstrates that by this reduction of the pension agencies the cost of distributing pensions can be reduced by at least $150,000 per annum.

The change was made possibly by an amendment to the law governing the disbursing of pensions which was approved March 23, 1896. It required that all pensioners should, after that date, be paid by checks remitted by mail.

Bloodshed May Follow Election.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 8.—Democrats and Populists each had a candidate for sheriff in Lawrence county, this state. Childers, the Democrat, was declared elected by a small majority. Stewart, the Populist, charged fraud. The election commissioners discovered an error, and gave the election to Stewart. County Judge Townsend, a Democrat, held that the votes in several districts were irregular, and he threw them out and confirmed the election to Childers. The Populists and Prohibitionists on one side, and the Childers faction on the other side, are arming, and there is fear bloodshed will result.

WANTS NO CABINET PLACE.

Mr. Goff Declines Maj. McKinley's Offer—Wilson at Canton.

Canton, Ohio, Feb. 8.—The usual Sunday quiet prevailed at the McKinley home. Congressman Wilson had a half-hour's talk with the major before leaving for the east in the afternoon. He had little to say except that his mission was not of national importance.

The best information is that Mr. Goff will not be in the cabinet; that he has arrived at this conclusion for personal reasons after two weeks' consideration. Judge Goff has written a letter to this effect to Maj. McKinley. His withdrawal brings up for reconsideration by the president-elect the whole question of who shall represent the south in the cabinet. It is safe to say his mind is not made up on this subject, and that he would be greatly relieved if Judge Goff, even at this late day, could be induced to alter his decision, which, it may be stated, is not expressed in absolutely final terms. J. J. McCook of New York is now considered probable for attorney-general.

WEYLER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Horse Shot Under the Spanish General by a Cuban Sharpshooter.

New York, Feb. 8.—A Key West special to the World says: "As General Weyler was marching with his columns just before entering Santa Clara his horse was shot under him by a Cuban sharpshooter. It is supposed the shot came from a distant hillside. Throughout the march from Rodas the captain-general was assailed by missiles of this kind, and several times barely escaped being wounded. He is greatly worried over it, and large scouting parties precede the advance of the Spanish columns to capture the daring marauders. "A Spanish force of 5,000 was ambushed Wednesday night near Nazarene, just west of Santa Clara, where General Weyler was then, and narrowly escaped annihilation."

Newspaper Man Arrested.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Consul-General Lee has telegraphed the state department from Havana as follows: "Sylvester Scovel, World correspondent, arrested at Tunas, Santa Clara province." Sylvester Scovel is the only New York newspaper correspondent who has been for any length of time with the Cuban army in the field. He is a son of the Rev. D. R. Scovel, president of Wooster (O.) university. Some months ago, it is alleged, Gen. Weyler offered $10,000 reward for the capture of Scovel.

ICE GORGE BROKE AT LOUISVILLE, KY.

MUCH DAMAGE REPORTED IN CONSEQUENCE.

New Orleans and Memphis Packets Caught—Both the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers Are Full of Floating Ice—Coal to Be Moved at Once.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 8.—An ice gorge fifteen feet high and twenty miles long, which has been forming for several days, gave way Sunday afternoon. Several New Orleans and Memphis packets have been caught in the ice and compelled to lie up. If these have not succeeded in finding refuge in tributaries the loss may be large. A telephone message from the scene states that the Buckeye State ran into Blue river to escape the ice. The water in Blue river quickly rose with the passing of the gorge and quickly receded, leaving the steamer stranded on the shore. Her pilot-house and smokestacks were demolished and it is now thought she will be a total loss. Her value is $40,000.

PENNSYLVANIA RIVERS RISING.

Good Boating Stages Now Assured in the Allegheny and Monongahela.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 8.—Both the Allegheny and the Monongahela rivers are full of floating ice and are rising rapidly, but a dangerous flood is not apprehended. A good boating stage of water is assured, however, and between seven and ten million bushels of coal will be shipped to southern points at once. Several tows were made up and started, but had to lay up because of the ice. The Monongahela above Brownsville and the Allegheny above Kittanning are still frozen over, and as the weather is getting colder they will probably not break up at this time.

Woman's Suffrage at Issue.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 8.—To-day the legislature will decide whether or not women shall vote in Nebraska. The adoption or rejection of the Grimes bill is the question before the house. In the committee of the whole there were several speeches against the passage of the bill, made by those who declared themselves in favor of woman suffrage, but they were opposed to the submission of the question at the next election at which amendments can be submitted to the people. This will be at the general election in November, 1898.

Gold Found in Caliche Rock.

Custer, S. D., Feb. 8.—Gold has been found in limestone ten miles west of Custer. Assays show the ore to run from $16 to $175 to the ton. During the last six weeks about 200 assays have been made from ores of the limestone. In every instance gold was found from a trace to $9 a ton. There are at least 2,000 square miles of limestone exposed in the Black Hills. Gold is found so seldom in alkaline earths that this deposit is a great curiosity to mineralogists. Gold is usual in siliceous or volcanic rocks.

REV. MR. DENNISON BEGINS HIS WORK

MADE AN EXCELLENT IMPRESSION YESTERDAY.

He is a Young Man of Marked Ability, and His Audience Felt the Force of His Enthusiasm—Faith, He Said, Was All in All—in the Other Churches.

Rev. Robert C. Dennison began his pastorate at the Congregational church yesterday, and his initial sermon was well received by the congregation.

Rev. Mr. Dennison is a young man, but he possesses ability in a marked degree. He spoke without notes, and held the undivided attention of his hearers. The word "Faith" was the keynote of his sermon; and he held that without faith nothing could be done. If we did not have faith in each other, business could not be transacted, and everything would come to a standstill. But faith in God was more important than faith in man. Upon it, all works should be builded in order that they be permanent.

Rev. Mr. Dennison is a magnetic speaker, and his audience felt his enthusiasm. He made a very favorable impression and won compliments from many of his hearers.

The other services of the day at the Congregational church were held at the usual hours yesterday.

DR. HODGE'S PARTING SERMONS.

Preached for the Last Time Before His Vacation Yesterday.

At the Baptist church Dr. Hodge took for his text Romans 8:29. "To be conformed to the image of His Son." God works according to a plan. Christ is our pattern. We are predestinated according to our character.

God would have us conformed to the image of His son in respect to obedience. Christ was fully obedient. God would have complete obedience. "It is better to be right than about right." Obedience should be prompt. Christ's obedience was a loving obedience. "I delight to do thy will. Be glad to do and be obedient."

Be conformed to Christ's image in respect to submission. Be completely submissive, and in regard to duties and in bearing troubles, without complaint, with faith.

Conformed to His image in respect to His filial love and wisdom. God knows best and in love gives what is for our good. Can we not trust our Father's love?

Conformed to His image in respect to His holiness. "When He shall appear we shall be like Him." It may not be completed here and now, but in God's own time we shall be like him.

Conformed to his image in the joy of holiness, let us be satisfied with nothing lower than the image of Jesus Christ in all things.

The Y. P. S. C. E. consecration meeting was led by Miss Mellie Smiley. The subject was "Sincerity; with ones self, with others, with God." A goodly number were present, and a good interest manifested.

In the evening Dr. Hodge gave his last sermon before going south for his vacation. The subject was, "The Prayer of the Publican"; Luke 18:9-14.

Many overestimate what they have and depreciate what others possess. The Pharisees were greatly given to this fault.

1. This was a prayer offered to God. Some pray to others than to God, but this man approached the divine being. This is the fundamental idea of true prayer. Call upon God.

2. This was the prayer of a sinner. Don't wait to be good; a sinner has a right to approach God.

3. A prayer of the one who knew he was a sinner.

4. It was a cry for mercy. This is the true way to come to God. God owes us nothing, so we ought to plead for mercy.

5. This was a prayer of great earnestness. We pray for everything, and without caring much about the answer. We ought to be in earnest.

6. He compresses his prayer into a single sentence: Ask for what you want.

7. It was a successful prayer. This man went home justified by God. He can also put away your sin. Ask Him.

Mrs. Wood lectures again Tuesday evening on "Honduras."

The subject for Thursday night is, "Remembrance of God's Blessings in the Past."

AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. E. H. Pence Talks Of God's Point Of View

At the Presbyterian church Mr. Pence took for his text yesterday morning Isaiah 63:15, "Look down from heaven, and behold from the habitation of thy holiness and of thy glory." We are drifting either in one of two directions—toward the point of view from which God looks at things or from it. "The chief end of man is to glorify God, and to enjoy him forever." Man cannot attain that end till he sees things somewhat as God sees them. And yet not so much sees them as feels them. The writer of the text endeavors to look at things from God's moral height, at least, from that direction, and we may reason in thought, if not up to, at least toward God's view-point.

God does not compel us to accept his, the correct view of things, but he gives us an opportunity to grow out of the right into the true conception, and it will be our fault if on the judgment day we have not worked into our thinking and character enough religiousness to have gotten some of his view of life.

When you chide one for his selfishness, his retort is invariably the claim of personal right to seek his own happiness. Nor does the gospel come to impeach the right of any human being to happiness, but the folly is that human being should waste a lifetime, and let slip an eternity of opportunity to be not only happy but blessed. How God must look down with pitying eye upon the vast waste of energy and enthusiasm which men and women throw into the pursuit of wealth or pleasure—a waste of capital in things which after the indulgence leave only a larger vacuum of dissatisfaction. If God did not know our ailments so well, and grieve over them so deeply, he must wonder that we could be contented to flee from him in whom all is peace and seek but the mere empty bubble of it elsewhere. Doubtless, there is no other human pain quite like that of a mother when she feels her child's reluctance to come submissively into her arms. The parentage of God is one element of his being. The proud monarch may dwell contentedly when separated a respectful distance from his subjects, but the fatherhood in him does not brook separation from his children. And it is just this fatherhood of God that we must feel. If you think always of God in his austere kingliness, you may never pray to him with any joy in praying.

Jesus said that man was not made for the Sabbath, but the Sabbath for man, so man was not made simply to obey a few commands given through Moses, but these laws were formulated for man because back of them lay the great principles of righteousness necessary to man's everlasting life. God gave no commandments to the beast of the field. The beast has the highest law of his being in his instinct within him. He does not obey the instinct because obedience comes only when resistance is possible, and that is not so of instinct. There is virtuous morality in an action when there is the power of resistance.

God never becomes more than an abstract conception to the intellect. Job at his best thinking realized that he had formed within his mind only an empty husk. "Canst thou by searching find out God?" But Job felt that there was wrath in God, and he might be able to feel that. We can by searching find out God, not simply with the eyes so much, but by the fingertips, where the nerve of feeling is. To know God does not mean that I must become as great as God. Man's ability to know God does not lie in his ability to rise to God's height, but in the ability of God's infinitude to come down to his level. So that as God looks down from the habitation of his holiness he but tries to become eyes for us. That we know him we know because in his holiness is his glory, and we feel the only glory this life may afford in a holiness that we may have more like his.

The monthly business meeting and social of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blair, South Jackson street.

DR. HALSEY ON NEEDS OF MAN

Instruction, He Said, Was Needed in All Branches and Subjects.

Rev. Dr. Sabin Halsey of Court Street M. E. church supplemented his sermon yesterday morning by saying that he had come to believe in a human theology. His text was a sentence from Paul, "My God, a Personal God, shall supply all your needs."

"What is man's greatest need, not as an animal, but as a being destined to live forever?" he asked. There were many things that he needed, he said, among them instruction. He comes into this world not only helpless and ignorant, but handicapped in the race of life. Knowledge is only acquired by experience. If wise we profit by our mistakes, the retrospect of every thoughtful life is filled with regret and the oft repeated declaration, "If I had only known" tells the sad story of mistakes and failure.

We are not only ignorant concerning the affairs of life, but are also ignorant concerning God and many of his plans that relate to our well being. People as a rule do not deliberately plan to sin or to be dishonest, but ignorance frequently leads to grievous error. The remedy is found in the truth of God as revealed in His Divine Word. The mission of His son Jesus was to educate or convince the world of sin, of righteousness and of judgment to come. Man needs also "Restoration."

As the result of his fall sin came into the world depriving him of the image of his Maker. A loss that only can be restored through the atonement of Christ the Savior.

He also needed "renovation" through the blood of Christ. The results will be transformation of life and character. Good thoughts will fill the mind once occupied by evil thoughts, and truth which is stronger than law, will rule the life fitting it for that sublime result immortality. This will all be possible if we allow God to supply all our needs.

ALL SOULS SUNDAY DOINGS

"Soldier Drummer" and "Soldier Singer" At the Concert

Rev. Mr. Southworth spoke in the morning on "The Sorrows of the World." The gist of his sermon was to the effect that "all the sorrows and pains of life are the rich, black soil out of which grow the sweetest and deepest enjoyments."

"Take the sorrow out of life" he said, "and you have it tame and cold. Without sorrow there would be no heroism, no sympathy, no close and trustful friendships, and none of that sweet comfort which only aching hearts can know. Out of the greatness of man's nature the liability of sorrow grows. We have the capacity

AN AGED MILTON MAN IS HAILE

Alvin Clarke Reads Without Glasses at Ninety-Three.

The Sunday Sentinel had a series of sketches of the "old people" of the state. From Milton the following sketch was sent: "The oldest man now living in Milton is Alvin Clarke, who was born in Plainfield, Osego county, N. Y., Jan. 11, 1804. He lived in his native place until the spring of 1856, when he came to Wisconsin. He spent the summer of that year in Walworth county, coming to Milton in the fall. He purchased the farm on which he still resides. He was married in 1827 to Miss Sally Davis, and is the father of ten children, seven of whom are living. He retains his mental faculties to a remarkable degree, enjoys excellent health for a man of his years and is able to be about the house and occasionally visit his children in this village. He spends his time largely in reading, being able to read ordinary print without the aid of spectacles, and is well posted on the current events of the day, which he delights to discuss with his neighbors and friends. Despite his advanced age he writes a plain hand and frequently indulges in rhymes, when sending notes to his son-in-law, a druggist, in ordering the simple remedies he needs. He has been a republican in politics since the formation of the party prior to that time was a Whig and an Abolitionist. He remembers meeting Mr. Clay when he visited a village near Mr. Clarke's home, which bore the name of the great statesman. He took great interest in the last political campaign, and was very anxious to live long enough to cast his vote for McKinley. In conversation with one of his sons early in the contest, when asked his opinion of the free silver movement, he replied: 'We do not want anything to do with free silver, what we need is good money and protection.' In religion he is a firm believer in the tenants of the Seventh Day Baptist church and has been a member of that denomination since early manhood."

A Few Silk Thoughts.

Last fall when in New York we had an opportunity buy black silks at the lowest figures ever known for good values, and took advantage of it. The outlet that we have for silks is very large, which fact alone warrants us in making large purchases, which means the lowest prices in our case; but we bought more than we expected to sell at once, purely as an investment, knowing that they could not be so low again, and we are in a position to offer black silks today at prices lower than any merchant in Southern Wisconsin can possibly make. In our stock are gros grain silks, marvelous values; rich satin effects in duchesse, rhadames, pean de soie, Lyons, luxors, Pekin reps, brocades; excellent qualities in mascots, armures, failles, crystals, taffetas, mourning silks, surahs, Indias, fancy blacks in gros-grains and taffeta, grounds, etc. We occupy a unique position in regard to silks. Such a complete line can be seen only in the largest cities, but we can offer ours at much less than city prices, being under much lighter expense. Compared to ordinary silk departments, merchants outside of the large cities are simply not in it. Comparison easily proves our statements.

TOPICS OF 'SUNDAY' SERMONS

to love, and so we must take the risk of losing what we love. If we were without deep affection we could lose our friends and never feel it. Out of the intensity of human emotions, sorrow grows.

A crowd completely filled the church at 7 o'clock to hear the "Soldier Drummer" and the "Soldier Singer." Patriotism was in the air, and at the close of the service everybody was in the mood for the grand national hymn, "America." In his address upon "Liberty and Union," after paying a tribute to those who had learned the meaning of the great American principle on the battle-fields, the speaker pointed out the dangers of today that were threatening the nation's life. On the whole, if the speaker's interpretation of present conditions is correct, it behooves the people to awake out of sleep and study again the first rudiments of citizenship and patriotism.

There was a note of alarm in what was said, and whether it was a false alarm or not, it would be as well to investigate for a moment before we turn again to our dreams.

Next Sunday evening Rev. Southworth will give an address on "The Real Woman and The Lady."

During the Engagement.

Aunt Susan—What, sitting up writing at this hour?

"Yes, auntie, it's only a little note to Harry."

Aunt Susan—Why, Harry only left you five minutes ago.

Carrie—Yes; but there is something I forgot to ask him, and it's very important.

Aunt Susan—Yes?

Carrie—I asked him if he loved me, and he said yes, but I forgot to ask him if he would love me always.—Boston Transcript.

Why He Marveled.

"It's very interesting," said young Mr. Gigg's tailor, "to read about some of the customs of people in Asia."

"I suppose so," was the reply.

"I have just learned that in that part of the world every man makes it a rule to pay his bills on the first of each year."

"You don't say so!"

"Yes. And what strikes me as the most extraordinary part of it is that those are the people to whom we send missionaries in order to civilize them."

—Washington Star.

No Longer Troubled Her.

"The care of the hand," said the manicure, "is a most important thing."

"Unquestionably," replied the young woman, demurely. "I'm so glad I've been relieved of it."

"Relieved of it?"

"Yes. I've given it to a young man who has been after it for almost a year."

—Chicago Post.

A Caterwaul.

In the sweet days of honeymoon, with Kate's allurement smitten, I was known, when granted the boon, to call her "little kitten."

But now my kitten's grown a cat, and cross, like other wives; and passing years have shown me that she surely has nine lives!

—Up-to-Date.

Their Relationship.

"The Bluvvings keep up a very imposing establishment," remarked the gossip man who had just moved in the neighborhood.

"They do that, indeed," replied the corner grocer; "and my store's the one that's mostly been imposed on."

—Washington Star.

As to Jagway.

"You will be surprised to see Jagway in his bathing suit. He swims and dives like a fish, and he can hold his breath under water a minute and a half."

"You astonish me. I never would have believed it possible he could hold that breath of his at all!"

—Chicago Tribune.

She Preferred the New Style.

He was a gentleman of the old school. "Permit me," he said.

Then he kissed her hand.

"Well, say," she exclaimed with some emphasis, as if something had occurred to provoke her, "there's nothing poisonous in the face powder I use."

WANT TO SEE THE "WUNK" DOG

Chicago Tribune Talks of U. C. MacLean's Noted Chinese Canine.

The Chicago Tribune printed this story yesterday:

There has always been a certain amount of doubt in exclusive circles of society concerning the desirability of introducing choice bits of dog in the menus of great banquets, and the same kind of meat has been generally tabooed at afternoon teas and omitted from the bills of fare at swell restaurants. But that does not necessarily mean that the meat of the noble companion does not offer attractions as an edible for many people. Hundreds and even thousands of people raise as large families of dogs as can be found in the near vicinity of a poverty stricken dork's home for the sole purpose of eating the same when the proper time arrives. True, these people do not compose the representative elements of society, but such a delightful occupation commands a certain amount of respect.

It is in the northern part of China that the populace vies with one another in preparing the choice cutlets of dog and for generations they have been raising dogs there with the same purpose in view as the sheep raiser of this country. The edible dog of that country has a distinctive name, being known as the "wunk" dog, and when ready for the slaughter resembles a young bear more than a dog. Hundreds upon hundreds of these dogs are raised and many times have they materially aided in warding off hunger and famine. They attain a weight of thirty or forty pounds and the meat is said to be sweet and nourishing.

The "wunk" dog can never become a popular article of food in this country, and one great reason would be the expense of bringing it from far-off China. One was imported last spring by Colonel C. MacLean of Janesville, Wis., and will become one of the special features among the exhibits at the coming annual dog show, but Mr. MacLean is authority for the statement that the "wunk" cannot be raised in this country, mainly because for generations their ancestors have had nothing but cereals to eat, and the heartier foods of this country would prove fatal.

Plenty of Self-Respect.

Mrs. McSwellem—I should think you would have more self-respect than to drink the way you do.

"Do you mean the man who practices with the flute every night?"

To Cure Nervous Dyspepsia.

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean, Make a Test of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Interesting Experience of an Indianapolis Gentleman.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicine and spring remedies; the real seat of the mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspepsia often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite, with accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper of No. 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have been suffering from nervous dyspepsia for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a book-keeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better, and am better in every way. The above is written not for notoriety, but is based on actual fact."

Respectfully yours,

A. W. SHARPER,

61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

D. G. CHEEVER DEAD AT WILLIAMSBURG

WELL KNOWN ROCK COUNTY MAN NO MORE.

The End Came at the Virginia City Where He Had Lived for the Past Two Years—Ex Member of the Legislature and Board of Control.

Dustin Grow Cheever, formerly of Clinton, died at Williamsburg, Va., on Saturday. He was one of the best known men in Rock county, and had resided in the vicinity of Clinton since 1851—until he left for Virginia two years ago; was an ex-member of the State Board of Control, and had served two terms in the state legislature.

He was born at Hardwick, Caledonia county, Vt., on January 30, 1830, and was therefore sixty-seven years of age. He was educated in the common schools, but afterward took a course in the Derby academy, where he had ex-Secretary of War Proctor for a companion. In 1851 he came to Wisconsin.

consolidated, and bought land in the present village of Clinton. Since that time, and until his removal to Virginia, he had lived in that place.

He had served as justice of the peace for fifteen years, and also as supervisor of the legislature, and in 1873 Governor Washburn appointed him as chairman of the committee to visit the charitable and penal institutions of the state, which body has since become the state board of control. His colleagues were J. L. Mitchell and J. E. Irish, of the senate, and C. S. Kelsey and Joseph Rankin, of the assembly.

His first wife died on Jan. 1, 1873, leaving two sons, Ralph W., editor of the Clinton Herald and Arthur, who was born in 1864. In 1878 Mr. Cheever was again married—to Mr. Lell L. Bailey. He was a republican in politics, a mason, and a member of the Baptist church.

The remains will be brought back to Clinton for interment, but funeral arrangements have not yet been perfected.

Henrietta Wyler.

Mrs. Henrietta Wyler, formerly of this city, died suddenly at Milwaukee Friday night and the funeral was held from the home, 2411 Cedar street, today.

Janesville people will remember Mrs. Wyler as the wife of the proprietor of the wine room on East Milwaukee street, in the block now occupied by Worthington & McKeligue. They moved from here about ten or twelve years ago, to Milwaukee, at which place they had since resided.

Mrs. Wyler was calling on a friend at 2513 Chestnut street, when she was stricken with heart disease, and died in a few minutes. She was sixty-two years of age.

Mrs. Charles Elwood.

The remains of Mrs. Charles Elwood who died in this city Tuesday, will be taken to Dakota tonight, to rest beside her husband. Funeral service was held yesterday afternoon Rev. W. H. Thompson officiating.

Maria White was born in Vermont, in 1827. She moved to Ohio in 1843, where she married Charles Elwood in 1844. They moved to Wisconsin in 1856; to Iowa in 1869; and from there to Dakota in 1883 where her husband died in 1893. Since that time she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. E. Robbins, in Janesville. She leaves six children, two sons and four daughters who mourn her loss, beside a host of friends.

Mrs. F. F. Fitzgibbon.

Mrs. F. F. Fitzgibbon died at Waukegan, Ill., this morning, and the remains will arrive in this city at 12:40 tomorrow. The funeral party will go directly to the cemetery.

STATE SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

Very Pleasant Concert Was Given on Saturday Evening.

Miss Randall, Miss Moore and Master Guy Walker three young musicians from Durand, Ill., entertained the State School for the Blind Saturday evening. The young ladies are both fine pianists and Master Walker as a vocalist with piano accompaniment is very fine.

The work was thoroughly appreciated and gave evidence of careful training and patient practice. Master Walker sang "I Alone the Cross Must Bear" and "Little Dark Brown Loo." He possesses a wonderful voice.

Beautiful dress goods and articles that all ladies are fond of looking at, are shown to advantage. The eastern markets have been secured for pretty spring goods, and the result of our efforts can be seen at any time, by calling. We take as much pleasure in showing goods to the ladies as in selling. Ladies need never hesitate to come in and look around even though they are not ready to buy. Bort, Bailey & Co.

LONGING FOR THE FIELDS.

Beyond the realm of butter and of peace;
Beyond the closeness of a social clime
Where, like an eager bard enchained by rhyme,
One's freer spirit oft receives offense;
Beyond brick walls and dreary chimneys,
Whence
The sweat of industry exhales in grime;
Beyond the purities of disease and crime
And haunts where honest lives grow hard and tense—
Beyond all these in what tranquillity,
Glad as the skies that over them do rest,
The fields upyield their new mown fragrant
To winds refreshed on some clear stream's cool breast
Or blown with wood scents and minstrelsy
Of the musicians of the bough and nest!
—William Struthers in Home Journal.

A LOVE STORY.

The house in which this little story came to pass was one of the smallest and humblest in the whole village. The linden tree in the yard was tall enough to spread its protecting arms over the low shingle roof, moss grown with age. Under the eaves and in the angles good fairies had taken up their quarters, and stable and granary, field and meadow, were blessed with prosperity and growth.

It had always been that way since Hubert and Kathrine came there to live. They brought with them but little more for a dowry than courage and health and strong, willing, working hands, for the little farm was not their own. They had leased it for a term of years. From season to season they prospered, and material bliss came with overflowing hands when a little dark haired girl was added to the flaxen headed youngster. The girl hadn't come in the usual way, like the boy, whose arrival the stork had heralded from the household, but suddenly and unexpectedly. In the adjoining parish a distant relative of Kathrine's had died, and fearing no refusal had left her dark eyed baby girl to Hubert and his wife. They were astonished, to be sure, when one morning the mail carrier lifted out of his small country wagon a bundle wrapped in a red checked pillow, with a letter from the dead woman acquainting them with the tiny stranger's mission. Mistress Kathrine was not long at a loss what to do, and she soon persuaded her husband, who shook his head a little doubtfully at first. Their own boy, John, was almost 5 years old. No, the undertaking was not such a momentous one after all, and the old pine cradle that had been stowed away in the garret was brought down into the bedroom of Hubert and his wife.

Thus was little Liz's entrance made. She grew out of the cradle and into short clothes, and soon her little, quick feet pattered over Mother Kathrine's clean kitchen floor and over garden and field. Her long, dark braids flew in the wind, and her bright, brown eyes stole their way into every one's heart. John kept good company with the little sister. In summer they hunted for berries together in the woods, and when the winter came they coasted down the hillside on a little sled the boy had himself built. They climbed the trees and picked the apples from the branches that would not give them up to Hubert's vigorous shaking. When other youngsters troubled the child or made her cry, John came to the rescue and proved an able champion.

The years sped on, and the prosperity and good fortune of the farm grew on apace. The homespun linen in the cupboard was piled up high, and the pennies in the trunk were first turned into silver and then into gold. When the lease ran out, the farm became Hubert's property. He bought adjoining acres and planted them with grain, and the cows and calves in his stables augmented beyond his hope.

"The strange child has brought us luck," Mother Kathrine was wont to say, until she forgot altogether that Liz was not her own flesh and blood.

"John must have the advantage of a better education than I had," declared Hubert, when the lad was 18 years old. "I'll send him to a good commercial college, and I'll keep him there as long as he can find anything to learn."

So John was sent away a good many hundred miles from home. The farmer's boy should see the world. He shouldn't choose his vocation ignorant of its ways, and if he found anything that gratified his tastes better than the simple farm life, Hubert was willing to make the sacrifice and set him up in business.

After three years John came back, ready to settle down and live and work on the farm like his father. He found Liz as much changed as she found him. Before her stood a broad shouldered man. Self consciousness was in the serious face, and the sprouting mustache suited it well. The half grown girl he remembered had blossomed into a beautiful maiden.

Soon after John's return Hubert and Kathrine wondered why their boy and girl, who had been the best of friends all their lives, no longer got along well together. There were little bickerings and differences all the time. When Liz was gay, John was sad, and when he teased her she resented it. When, as was often the case at first, he sat down for a quiet, confidential chat with her, she snubbed him and gave him crusty answers, and when he ordered her about, as men like to do with their women folk, she flew into a rage. Out of their insignificant quarrels came serious difficulties. Mother Kathrine, who in all the years of her married life had been accustomed to even, quiet ways, was distressed over the breaking up of her peaceful household. She mediated, admonished, pleaded. It was all in vain. Father Hubert lost his patience and threatened to box his son's ears and drive him from home if he could not get along with the girl. One morning, after another turbulent scene the night before, Liz came with tearful eyes and pale cheeks to her foster mother.

"Mother," she began, "I have been thinking that father should not have our only chance was for somebody to go, and I knew life was as sweet to the others as it was to me.

"Instinctively we began first talking about the way the man who should go should maneuver to best advantage before raising the question who should be the man. It took only a few minutes, though, for the scout to give his advice, which was for one to ride out, waving a white handkerchief. He was to keep to the eastward and ride as hard as he dared toward the Indians, looking sharply for the weakest point in their line toward his right. He should then make a dash and ride as hard as possible until it was all over, firing as often as he could.

"Then we had to decide who should go, and I supposed, of course, that we would draw lots, but one of the men spoke up unexpectedly:

"Whoever goes," he said, "doesn't want to start for some hours. The scout says just after daybreak is the best time. What is the matter of settling this thing with poker? We can play freeze out, and three games will settle it, the winner dropping out each time."

"The proposition caught me. You know I used to pride myself on my poker. After a little hesitation the others agreed. The man who proposed it had the cards, and we counted out 600 coffee beans for chips and began playing on a blanket folded and laid on the ground.

"You would think the details of a game like that would fix themselves in the memory so that I would be able to tell you every hand I held and every bet I made, wouldn't you? Well, I can't. In fact, I can't tell anything about the first game excepting that I was the first man to lose all his chips. I had played often enough for what I thought were high stakes, but the thought that I was playing for my life rattled me completely, and I really believe I bet at random.

"Whatever I did I lost, and the man who had proposed the game won out. He was shot in a gambling house three months later—had an extra ace in his sleeve, I believe, or something like that.

"The next freeze out, between three of us, was a comparatively short one. It did not take more than 20 minutes for the scout to gather in all the chips, but, short as it was, I managed to get myself together a little, though I was still full of the thought of the value of the stakes—a thing which, I have noticed, always interferes with my play.

"When the third game began, however, I pulled myself together with a most tremendous effort and really became as cool as I ever had been before at a game of cards. The man I played against this time was a young Englishman whom I had grown to esteem highly in the short time I had known him. His people at home never heard this story, and I hope they never will. They know that he was killed by the Indians and that he was on a hunting trip, but they never heard of his last game of cards nor of the way he rode to his death.

"We had each 300 beans, and half a dozen hands were dealt before either of us got cards to bet on. Then on my deal I caught three deuces and made it 50 to play. He looked at his cards and raised me 50, which I covered. He drew one card and let it lie without looking at it, while he watched me.

"I saw him looking, of course, and I am more glad than I am of almost anything else I ever did in an almost useless life to think that I made the worst play I ever saw made. I liked the man well, as I said, and some impulse that I couldn't understand then, and can't explain now, told me to leave the thing to chance and to give him a little the better chance.

"I had played with him before, and I was certain that he was drawing to a flush, and somehow I felt that he had filled it. Of course I should have drawn to the strength of my hand, but I didn't. I drew one card only, holding up an eight spot to my deuces, and I shoved all my beans into the pot without looking at my draw.

"He gave me one look, in which I read a perfect appreciation of what I had done, and without a word and without lifting his fifth card he pushed his chips forward.

"Then my nerve gave out. I grew as white as death, I know, though no one ever told me so, and I actually could not lift my cards. His nerve never shook, though, apparently, and he turned his fifth card over as he laid it on the blanket. They were all clubs.

"He looked at me, and I swear I saw regret in his eyes. I tell you he was a man. Then I managed to turn my hand over. I had drawn the other eight."

The westerner stopped. He drained his glass and then said:

"Waiter, bring another bottle and bring me some whisky besides. This stuff doesn't go to the right spot." Then, after he had had his drink, he said:

"You don't wonder, do you, that I don't play poker any more?"

"No," said his hearers, "but finish the story."

"Oh, there isn't much more to it. At least that is the end of it, as I think about it. The Englishman shook hands with us all and rode away. We watched him until he fell, and he must have gone fully three miles. A good many Indians fell before he did, for he was a clever shot. Later in the day the company came to our rescue, and I am glad to say a good many more Indians paid for his death with their own."—New York Sun.

The Greatest Monarch
Isant subject for pity if he is troubled with dyspepsia, while his poorest subject who digests properly may feel envied by a prince afflicted. The dyspeptic of every clime and nation owe a debt of gratitude to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which rescues them from one of the most obstinate and troublesome complaints against which medical skill is directed. On this continent, in Europe and the tropics, this sterling remedy is preeminently and justly popular, not only as a stomachic, but also as a means of preventing and curing malarial, rheumatic, kidney, bilious and nervous disorders. It improves appetite and keeps the system in a healthy condition, and cures the infirmities of age. A wineglass full before bedtime has a tendency to promote tranquil health yielding sleep a boon much coveted by nervous invalids.

Armor For Millionaires.

Four American millionaires have recently had made in Sheffield, England, steel vests and coats which are warranted to secure them immunity from death in ordinary cases of attempts at assassination. The armor is of chain mail, so light that when one has worn it a week or two it is no incumbrance to him and strong enough to turn a dagger or sword thrust, though it would not stop a bullet. A number of English statesmen have been using this armor since the days of the Fenian riots.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

I have given Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One use has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children.—Geo. E. Wolff, Clerk of the Circuit Court, Fernandina, Fla. Sold at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericktown, Mo. was troubled with chronic diarrhoea for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its constant use cured him. For sale at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. He was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes are for sale at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee.

FREE TO EVERY MAN

WHICH CURED HIM AFTER EVERYTHING ELSE FAILED

THE METHOD OF A GREAT TREATMENT FOR WEAKNESS OF MEN.

Painful diseases are bad enough, but when a man is slowly wasting away with nervous weakness, the mental forebodings are ten times worse than the most severe pain. There is no cure up to the mental suffering day or night. Sleep is almost impossible under such a strain men are scarcely restored to their natural size and vigor, and he now declares that any man who will take the trouble to send his name and address may have the method of this wonderful treatment free. Now when I say free I mean absolutely without cost, because I want every weakened man to get the benefit of my experience.

I am not a philanthropist, nor do I pose as an altruist, but there are thousands of men suffering the mental tortures of a weakened manhood who would be cured at once if they but get such a remedy as the one that cured me. Do not try to stop your mind. I am not offering the few postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it, and learn that there are a few things on earth that, although they cost nothing to get, they are worth a fortune to some men and mean a lifetime of happiness to most of us. Write to Thomas Slater, Box 34, Kalamazoo, Mich., and the information will be mailed in a plain sealed envelope.

LOWELL HARDWARE CO.

SHOE SALE OPENS WITH A RUSH.....

The prices made on our $2,000 worth of shoes have made a sensation.

We Mean to Keep the Interest at Fever Heat

Every shoe must go—we do not intend to carry a shoe stock, and are shaping everything to further our growth along dry goods lines exclusively. Prices must do the work. We can give but two weeks to the sale and even during those weeks we cannot show the stock to advantage, being forced to use our second story for the purpose. To offset these drawbacks, we cut prices squarely in two. Fifty cents on the dollar is the rule right through the stock, but twenty cents on the dollar is the actual rate on some of our leaders. For instance, rubbers. Here are a few sample quotations:

Fashionably cut, Dongola Kid, ladies' dress shoe, patent leather tip, sizes 2 1-2 to 5 1-2. About fifty pairs of these—regular $2.50 shoe, we offer at $1.00 per pair.

Misses' grain leather button—heel and spring heel—sizes 11 to 2. A substantial, serviceable shoe, unsurpassed for wear and utility—49c per Pair.

Solid school shoes for boys, regular $1.25 goods, the sort that save cobbler's bills and defy snow drifts—62 Cts. per Pair.

This is not a sale where it is necessary to give a bargain counter sound by quoting prices in odd cents.

The values speak for themselves. For instance we offer misses' and children's shoes at 40, 50 and 60 cents a pair that we could not retail under ordinary circumstances at less than double.

Our intention of clearing out every shoe gives buyers a great opportunity. Remember, the sale opens Saturday, Feb. 6, and Saturday, Feb. 20 ends it—if the shoes last as long as that.
